

pr e fac e. he following Effay owes its origin T to a converfation with a friend, on the fubject of Mr. Godwin's effay on avarice and profufion, in his Enquir- er. The difcufion ftarted the general queftion of the future improvement of fociety, and the Author at firft fat down with an intention of merely ftating his thoughts to his friend, up- on paper, in a clearer manner than he thought he could do in converfation. But as the fubject opened upon him, fome ideas occurred, which he did not recollect to have met with before ; and as he conceived that every leafy light, on a topic fo generally intereft- ing, might be received with candour, he determined to put his thoughts in a form for publication. pr e fac e. he following Effay owes its origin T—to a converfation with a friend, on the fubject of Mr. Godwin's effay on avarice and profufion, in his